

An. Christi

150.

Justinus
Martyr.

IVSTINVS MARTER.

LOoke upon this effigies, and you behold an acute Philosopher, a Judicious Divine, a constant Martyr, a stout shield of the Christian Faith: an Elegant, ancient, and eloquent Writer, in the defence of the Truth: Whom many of the Fathers have highly esteemed and deeply praised, as Photius in his Book entituled the Library, and Eusebius in his Ecclesiastical History. S. Jerom likewise reckons him none of the meanest amongst those famous Champions of the Church: so Epiphanius terms him, Vir, sanctus, & Dei, a man, an holy man, and a lover of God. Anastasius, Paulus Orosius in his seventh Book and fifth Chapter,

Photius in Bib.
Euseb. Eccles.
Hist. l. 4 cap. 11
Hiero in illa
Eccles. 56. ipso.
Epiphan. lib 1.
Tom. 3. contra
46. Hæresin
Tatianorum.