

An. Christi
 VII.
 Sanctus
 Chrysostomus.

S. CHRYSOSTOM.

As Bellarm. in 398.

I Am now to Write and describe to the view the sweetest Father that the Church of God injoyd in many ages; whom to prayse is but of Desert; whom not to Commend, would seeme barbarous and unchristian. He was an Auditour and Disciple to Eusebius; then when hee was Priest at Antioch: hee got this name Chrysostome, as one saith, Ob venustatem Eloquii, for his gracefull Eloquence: it signifies a golden tongue, for hee was prevalent and attractive; a man most learned in Theology, of an admirable Wit in his framing his Homilies, hee was beloved and revered of all men; His fathers name was