

S CIRILLVS ALEXAND

His eminent Father of the Church, was Bishop of Alexandria, a Grecian by Nation, famous for his actions done in the Church. As for his parentage, no doubt, but that also was in some sort suitable to his breeding; for Theophilus the late Archbishop of Alexandria was his owne Uncle; whom also hee succeeded in that See: but not without opposition. Some stood for one Timothy, then Archdeacon of Alexandria, others came in for this Cyrril, partly because of his neere alliance to this former Archbishop, who they esteemed highly, and revered for his sanctitie and holinesse of life: but chiefly be-

Xx

An. Christi

432.

Sanctus

Cyrrillus

Alexand.

Socrat. hist.
l. 7. c. 7.

Niceph. hist. .
Græcolat. c. 14
l. 14.